

Patricia Gándara

Patricia Gándara is Research Professor of Education in the Graduate School of Education and Information Sciences at the University of California, Los Angeles. She received her Ph.D. in educational psychology from UCLA. She has been a bilingual school psychologist, a social scientist with the RAND Corporation, and a director of education research in the California State Legislature. Dr. Gándara is a commissioner on President Obama's Advisory Commission on Educational Excellence for Hispanics as well as a fellow of the American Educational Research Association, which gave her its Presidential Citation in 2011. In 2005, she was awarded the Distinguished Public Service Award from UC Davis and the Outstanding Researcher in Higher Education Award from the American Association of Hispanics in Higher Education. She has written or edited seven books and more than 100 articles and reports on educational equity for racial and linguistic minority students, school reform, access to higher education, the education of Latino students, and language policy.